

Closing Out Sale of Merchant, Tailoring and Gents Furnishing Goods

Selling Out at Cost!! Selling Out at Cost!!

Having determined to retire from my present business on The First day of February, 1885, I will offer to the public my entire stock of Clothing, Piece Goods, Hats and Caps, Gentlemen's Furnishing Goods, Etc., Etc.

Regardless of cost. Come and examine what I have in Stock; I am certain that you will find the quality good enough and prices low enough to suit the most fastidious. I am in earnest and will positively retire from business, therefore if you want a bargain in clothing, men's wear etc., you will find it here. Call and examine my Stock and prices; it will cost nothing to see for yourself what I am offering.

C. W. H. HALL.

THE FAIR PLAY.

JOHN LA CHANCE, Publisher.

Fair Play Things.

- Christmas is coming.
- Come in and pay up.
- Eggs 20 cts per dozen.
- Butter 25 cts per pound.
- Wheat is worth 66 cents at the mill.
- Mr. Edward Coats was in town this week.
- Mr. Leon Boggy, of St. Mary, was in town this week.
- K. Weber, of Farmington, was in town this week.
- Frank Cimino of Prairie du Rocher was in town Thursday.
- Geo. Bond, Jr., was in town as a witness in the Adams case.
- Mrs. Seyler has the nicest assortment of holiday toys in town.
- Jos. E. and Lawrence Rigdon were in town Monday and Tuesday.
- Our stores are crowded with holiday goods of every description.
- We notice Mr. Jules Drury on our streets the first part of the week.
- Judge Carter was here in behalf of the defendant in the Adams case.
- Mr. M. Vich has a fine lot of Christmas toys, which he sells cheap.
- Raf. Coffman was in town this week as a witness in the Adams case.
- Judge Fox and Judge Carter departed for home yesterday morning.
- Chas. P. Boyer our Bloomsdale correspondent was in to see us last Saturday.
- Judge Fox held court at DeSoto last week for Judge Thomas, trying a murder case.
- Fifteen stores in all styles at prices from $3.50 to $18.00 at KARL A. MUELLER'S.
- The price of the FAIR PLAY and weekly Republican in this county is $100 per year.
- We mean just what we say. We have got the Best Job Printing Office in Southeast Missouri.
- MARRIED:—On Thursday Nov. 27th, 1884 by Rev. Father Hutter, Amos N. Bonn to Honora Brown.
- A blizzard struck this place last Saturday night which made us feel like winter was coming on.
- Mr. Bert Valle moved his family in the building formerly occupied by Paul L. Lempe, last Thursday.
- Great preparations are being made for the festival which will take place on the 21st and 22nd of December.
- Louis J. Boyer, Bloomsdale's intrepid young merchant was in town last Tuesday and Wednesday.
- The first snow of this season, which was hardly enough to cover mother earth, fell on Thursday night.
- Poor little old half sheet Herald, how it would like to be called the great metropolitan paper of the west.
- Footwear.
- The best in the Market made to fit to wear and to keep your feet dry, at C. H. Bunn.
- John V. Noell, Esq., prosecuting attorney elect of Perry county, assisted in the prosecution of the State against Adams.
- Dr. J. W. Braham, our local dentist, will go to St. Joe Lead Mines about the first of next month and will remain two weeks.
- We printed 1,000 bills of lading for Sam Stanton this week and as Sam is a good democrat, we stamped a Cleveland rooster on them.
- Leon J. Jester our new Sheriff filed his bond and qualified before Judge Fox last Friday, though Sheriff Louis Naumann, is his deputy.
- Judge Bantz repaid the members of the bar on Thanksgiving day with a sumptuous repast of Turkey and many delicious delicacies.
- "Charter Oak," Buck's Billiard and a large variety of other goods stores at.
- KARL A. MUELLER'S.
- The case of the State vs. Adams resulted happily to the defendant in a verdict one way. The jury returned a verdict of not guilty and Mrs. Adams presented him with a fine girl a few minutes after the verdict.

THE COMING EVENT.

The attention of the good people of Ste. Genevieve is called to the approaching festival, which is destined to usher in Santa Claus and all Christmas cheer.

The evenings of December 21st and 22nd have been appointed as affording an excellent opportunity for the selection of Christmas gifts, from the many and various articles of use and beauty which have been purchased for the occasion, with the greatest possible taste and foresight.

Everyone who attends the festival may be assured that he will find something to suit his individual taste, no matter how fastidious that may be.

By way of novelty there is to be a "side show" on an extended scale, consisting of Mrs. Jarley's Famous Wax Works and Living Statues, and to those who rarely enjoy a hearty laugh, we say, "A word to the wise is sufficient"—don't you fail to visit Mrs. Jarley.

The Progressive Band will discourse sweet strains of melody at intervals during the evening, and the "fair women and brave men" who through the stairway and press to the door seeking admittance will tarry themselves, when the portals disclose, upon the threshold of an enchanted land.

In order to make the scene as brilliant as possible, all the active workers, the ladies who preside over ice-cream stands, fancy tables, etc., will each personate some celebrity of the past. Charlotte Corday will be there with her "wicked looking knife," which she will plunge relentlessly into the breast of a well-grown turkey; while Marie Antoinette, in her imperial robes, will forget that she is queen, to minister to the bystanders.

Cleopatra, "the Serpent of old Nile," will rise from her sleep of centuries to shake hands with Martha Washington, Pocahontas, and a shining array of French courtesses, English Queens, and the lovely Gretchen of "Faust."

A number of Peasant girls of all nations will appear in appropriate costumes, and varied other characters will swell the number, who, with striking fidelity will reproduce the costumes and manners of "the brave days of old."

Want of space prevents more than giving a mere outline, and not even that, as there remain several notable features of the festival, which will no doubt prove equally as attractive as those already mentioned.

Perhaps not the least attraction will be the shape of a supper, which Lucullus himself would not disdain, and we need only add that Hebe is to wait on all who sit at the festive board, to feel certain that the vacant chairs will be few, if any.

When the object is one so eminently worthy, as is ours, in the endeavor to make the festival a great and brilliant success, surely all Ste. Genevieve, and especially all Catholic Ste. Genevieve, should rush to meet the good work more than half way.

Do You Want a Public Office?

There are one hundred and twenty thousand public offices within the gift of the new administration, and now is the time for those seeking public employment to take proper steps to secure one of these lucrative positions.

To this end the United States Blue Book will prove an indispensable guide and assistant. The Blue Book is a register of all Federal offices and employments in each state and territory, the District of Columbia and abroad, with their salaries, emoluments and duties, shows who is eligible for appointment, the civil service rules, questions asked at examinations, how to make an application and how to push it to success, and gives besides a vast amount of valuable and important information relative to government positions never before published. Send seventy-five cents to J. H. Soule, Publisher, Washington, D. C., and secure a copy of the Blue Book.

He Was Heard From.

A son of St. John, the prohibitionist candidate for the presidency, is a clerk in the interior department. His name is Harvey St. John. He is a Republican of the most pronounced type. He went to Kansas during the campaign and took the stump for Blaine against his father. While on there his father telegraphed that he wanted to see him. The son then graphed back that his passes did not go that way; the father sent on passes that did that way. The son paid his father a visit. During the conversation the prohibition candidate said: "Two years ago the Republicans of

THE COMING EVENT.

The attention of the good people of Ste. Genevieve is called to the approaching festival, which is destined to usher in Santa Claus and all Christmas cheer.

The evenings of December 21st and 22nd have been appointed as affording an excellent opportunity for the selection of Christmas gifts, from the many and various articles of use and beauty which have been purchased for the occasion, with the greatest possible taste and foresight.

Everyone who attends the festival may be assured that he will find something to suit his individual taste, no matter how fastidious that may be.

By way of novelty there is to be a "side show" on an extended scale, consisting of Mrs. Jarley's Famous Wax Works and Living Statues, and to those who rarely enjoy a hearty laugh, we say, "A word to the wise is sufficient"—don't you fail to visit Mrs. Jarley.

The Progressive Band will discourse sweet strains of melody at intervals during the evening, and the "fair women and brave men" who through the stairway and press to the door seeking admittance will tarry themselves, when the portals disclose, upon the threshold of an enchanted land.

In order to make the scene as brilliant as possible, all the active workers, the ladies who preside over ice-cream stands, fancy tables, etc., will each personate some celebrity of the past. Charlotte Corday will be there with her "wicked looking knife," which she will plunge relentlessly into the breast of a well-grown turkey; while Marie Antoinette, in her imperial robes, will forget that she is queen, to minister to the bystanders.

Cleopatra, "the Serpent of old Nile," will rise from her sleep of centuries to shake hands with Martha Washington, Pocahontas, and a shining array of French courtesses, English Queens, and the lovely Gretchen of "Faust."

A number of Peasant girls of all nations will appear in appropriate costumes, and varied other characters will swell the number, who, with striking fidelity will reproduce the costumes and manners of "the brave days of old."

Want of space prevents more than giving a mere outline, and not even that, as there remain several notable features of the festival, which will no doubt prove equally as attractive as those already mentioned.

Perhaps not the least attraction will be the shape of a supper, which Lucullus himself would not disdain, and we need only add that Hebe is to wait on all who sit at the festive board, to feel certain that the vacant chairs will be few, if any.

When the object is one so eminently worthy, as is ours, in the endeavor to make the festival a great and brilliant success, surely all Ste. Genevieve, and especially all Catholic Ste. Genevieve, should rush to meet the good work more than half way.

Do You Want a Public Office?

There are one hundred and twenty thousand public offices within the gift of the new administration, and now is the time for those seeking public employment to take proper steps to secure one of these lucrative positions.

To this end the United States Blue Book will prove an indispensable guide and assistant. The Blue Book is a register of all Federal offices and employments in each state and territory, the District of Columbia and abroad, with their salaries, emoluments and duties, shows who is eligible for appointment, the civil service rules, questions asked at examinations, how to make an application and how to push it to success, and gives besides a vast amount of valuable and important information relative to government positions never before published. Send seventy-five cents to J. H. Soule, Publisher, Washington, D. C., and secure a copy of the Blue Book.

He Was Heard From.

A son of St. John, the prohibitionist candidate for the presidency, is a clerk in the interior department. His name is Harvey St. John. He is a Republican of the most pronounced type. He went to Kansas during the campaign and took the stump for Blaine against his father. While on there his father telegraphed that he wanted to see him. The son then graphed back that his passes did not go that way; the father sent on passes that did that way. The son paid his father a visit. During the conversation the prohibition candidate said: "Two years ago the Republicans of

THE COMING EVENT.

The attention of the good people of Ste. Genevieve is called to the approaching festival, which is destined to usher in Santa Claus and all Christmas cheer.

The evenings of December 21st and 22nd have been appointed as affording an excellent opportunity for the selection of Christmas gifts, from the many and various articles of use and beauty which have been purchased for the occasion, with the greatest possible taste and foresight.

Everyone who attends the festival may be assured that he will find something to suit his individual taste, no matter how fastidious that may be.

By way of novelty there is to be a "side show" on an extended scale, consisting of Mrs. Jarley's Famous Wax Works and Living Statues, and to those who rarely enjoy a hearty laugh, we say, "A word to the wise is sufficient"—don't you fail to visit Mrs. Jarley.

The Progressive Band will discourse sweet strains of melody at intervals during the evening, and the "fair women and brave men" who through the stairway and press to the door seeking admittance will tarry themselves, when the portals disclose, upon the threshold of an enchanted land.

In order to make the scene as brilliant as possible, all the active workers, the ladies who preside over ice-cream stands, fancy tables, etc., will each personate some celebrity of the past. Charlotte Corday will be there with her "wicked looking knife," which she will plunge relentlessly into the breast of a well-grown turkey; while Marie Antoinette, in her imperial robes, will forget that she is queen, to minister to the bystanders.

Cleopatra, "the Serpent of old Nile," will rise from her sleep of centuries to shake hands with Martha Washington, Pocahontas, and a shining array of French courtesses, English Queens, and the lovely Gretchen of "Faust."

A number of Peasant girls of all nations will appear in appropriate costumes, and varied other characters will swell the number, who, with striking fidelity will reproduce the costumes and manners of "the brave days of old."

Want of space prevents more than giving a mere outline, and not even that, as there remain several notable features of the festival, which will no doubt prove equally as attractive as those already mentioned.

Perhaps not the least attraction will be the shape of a supper, which Lucullus himself would not disdain, and we need only add that Hebe is to wait on all who sit at the festive board, to feel certain that the vacant chairs will be few, if any.

When the object is one so eminently worthy, as is ours, in the endeavor to make the festival a great and brilliant success, surely all Ste. Genevieve, and especially all Catholic Ste. Genevieve, should rush to meet the good work more than half way.

Do You Want a Public Office?

There are one hundred and twenty thousand public offices within the gift of the new administration, and now is the time for those seeking public employment to take proper steps to secure one of these lucrative positions.

To this end the United States Blue Book will prove an indispensable guide and assistant. The Blue Book is a register of all Federal offices and employments in each state and territory, the District of Columbia and abroad, with their salaries, emoluments and duties, shows who is eligible for appointment, the civil service rules, questions asked at examinations, how to make an application and how to push it to success, and gives besides a vast amount of valuable and important information relative to government positions never before published. Send seventy-five cents to J. H. Soule, Publisher, Washington, D. C., and secure a copy of the Blue Book.

He Was Heard From.

A son of St. John, the prohibitionist candidate for the presidency, is a clerk in the interior department. His name is Harvey St. John. He is a Republican of the most pronounced type. He went to Kansas during the campaign and took the stump for Blaine against his father. While on there his father telegraphed that he wanted to see him. The son then graphed back that his passes did not go that way; the father sent on passes that did that way. The son paid his father a visit. During the conversation the prohibition candidate said: "Two years ago the Republicans of

THE COMING EVENT.

The attention of the good people of Ste. Genevieve is called to the approaching festival, which is destined to usher in Santa Claus and all Christmas cheer.

The evenings of December 21st and 22nd have been appointed as affording an excellent opportunity for the selection of Christmas gifts, from the many and various articles of use and beauty which have been purchased for the occasion, with the greatest possible taste and foresight.

Everyone who attends the festival may be assured that he will find something to suit his individual taste, no matter how fastidious that may be.

By way of novelty there is to be a "side show" on an extended scale, consisting of Mrs. Jarley's Famous Wax Works and Living Statues, and to those who rarely enjoy a hearty laugh, we say, "A word to the wise is sufficient"—don't you fail to visit Mrs. Jarley.

The Progressive Band will discourse sweet strains of melody at intervals during the evening, and the "fair women and brave men" who through the stairway and press to the door seeking admittance will tarry themselves, when the portals disclose, upon the threshold of an enchanted land.

In order to make the scene as brilliant as possible, all the active workers, the ladies who preside over ice-cream stands, fancy tables, etc., will each personate some celebrity of the past. Charlotte Corday will be there with her "wicked looking knife," which she will plunge relentlessly into the breast of a well-grown turkey; while Marie Antoinette, in her imperial robes, will forget that she is queen, to minister to the bystanders.

Cleopatra, "the Serpent of old Nile," will rise from her sleep of centuries to shake hands with Martha Washington, Pocahontas, and a shining array of French courtesses, English Queens, and the lovely Gretchen of "Faust."

A number of Peasant girls of all nations will appear in appropriate costumes, and varied other characters will swell the number, who, with striking fidelity will reproduce the costumes and manners of "the brave days of old."

Want of space prevents more than giving a mere outline, and not even that, as there remain several notable features of the festival, which will no doubt prove equally as attractive as those already mentioned.

Perhaps not the least attraction will be the shape of a supper, which Lucullus himself would not disdain, and we need only add that Hebe is to wait on all who sit at the festive board, to feel certain that the vacant chairs will be few, if any.

When the object is one so eminently worthy, as is ours, in the endeavor to make the festival a great and brilliant success, surely all Ste. Genevieve, and especially all Catholic Ste. Genevieve, should rush to meet the good work more than half way.

Do You Want a Public Office?

There are one hundred and twenty thousand public offices within the gift of the new administration, and now is the time for those seeking public employment to take proper steps to secure one of these lucrative positions.

To this end the United States Blue Book will prove an indispensable guide and assistant. The Blue Book is a register of all Federal offices and employments in each state and territory, the District of Columbia and abroad, with their salaries, emoluments and duties, shows who is eligible for appointment, the civil service rules, questions asked at examinations, how to make an application and how to push it to success, and gives besides a vast amount of valuable and important information relative to government positions never before published. Send seventy-five cents to J. H. Soule, Publisher, Washington, D. C., and secure a copy of the Blue Book.

He Was Heard From.

A son of St. John, the prohibitionist candidate for the presidency, is a clerk in the interior department. His name is Harvey St. John. He is a Republican of the most pronounced type. He went to Kansas during the campaign and took the stump for Blaine against his father. While on there his father telegraphed that he wanted to see him. The son then graphed back that his passes did not go that way; the father sent on passes that did that way. The son paid his father a visit. During the conversation the prohibition candidate said: "Two years ago the Republicans of

THE COMING EVENT.

The attention of the good people of Ste. Genevieve is called to the approaching festival, which is destined to usher in Santa Claus and all Christmas cheer.

The evenings of December 21st and 22nd have been appointed as affording an excellent opportunity for the selection of Christmas gifts, from the many and various articles of use and beauty which have been purchased for the occasion, with the greatest possible taste and foresight.

Everyone who attends the festival may be assured that he will find something to suit his individual taste, no matter how fastidious that may be.

By way of novelty there is to be a "side show" on an extended scale, consisting of Mrs. Jarley's Famous Wax Works and Living Statues, and to those who rarely enjoy a hearty laugh, we say, "A word to the wise is sufficient"—don't you fail to visit Mrs. Jarley.

The Progressive Band will discourse sweet strains of melody at intervals during the evening, and the "fair women and brave men" who through the stairway and press to the door seeking admittance will tarry themselves, when the portals disclose, upon the threshold of an enchanted land.

In order to make the scene as brilliant as possible, all the active workers, the ladies who preside over ice-cream stands, fancy tables, etc., will each personate some celebrity of the past. Charlotte Corday will be there with her "wicked looking knife," which she will plunge relentlessly into the breast of a well-grown turkey; while Marie Antoinette, in her imperial robes, will forget that she is queen, to minister to the bystanders.

Cleopatra, "the Serpent of old Nile," will rise from her sleep of centuries to shake hands with Martha Washington, Pocahontas, and a shining array of French courtesses, English Queens, and the lovely Gretchen of "Faust."

A number of Peasant girls of all nations will appear in appropriate costumes, and varied other characters will swell the number, who, with striking fidelity will reproduce the costumes and manners of "the brave days of old."

Want of space prevents more than giving a mere outline, and not even that, as there remain several notable features of the festival, which will no doubt prove equally as attractive as those already mentioned.

Perhaps not the least attraction will be the shape of a supper, which Lucullus himself would not disdain, and we need only add that Hebe is to wait on all who sit at the festive board, to feel certain that the vacant chairs will be few, if any.

When the object is one so eminently worthy, as is ours, in the endeavor to make the festival a great and brilliant success, surely all Ste. Genevieve, and especially all Catholic Ste. Genevieve, should rush to meet the good work more than half way.

Do You Want a Public Office?

There are one hundred and twenty thousand public offices within the gift of the new administration, and now is the time for those seeking public employment to take proper steps to secure one of these lucrative positions.

To this end the United States Blue Book will prove an indispensable guide and assistant. The Blue Book is a register of all Federal offices and employments in each state and territory, the District of Columbia and abroad, with their salaries, emoluments and duties, shows who is eligible for appointment, the civil service rules, questions asked at examinations, how to make an application and how to push it to success, and gives besides a vast amount of valuable and important information relative to government positions never before published. Send seventy-five cents to J. H. Soule, Publisher, Washington, D. C., and secure a copy of the Blue Book.

He Was Heard From.

A son of St. John, the prohibitionist candidate for the presidency, is a clerk in the interior department. His name is Harvey St. John. He is a Republican of the most pronounced type. He went to Kansas during the campaign and took the stump for Blaine against his father. While on there his father telegraphed that he wanted to see him. The son then graphed back that his passes did not go that way; the father sent on passes that did that way. The son paid his father a visit. During the conversation the prohibition candidate said: "Two years ago the Republicans of

THE COMING EVENT.

The attention of the good people of Ste. Genevieve is called to the approaching festival, which is destined to usher in Santa Claus and all Christmas cheer.

The evenings of December 21st and 22nd have been appointed as affording an excellent opportunity for the selection of Christmas gifts, from the many and various articles of use and beauty which have been purchased for the occasion, with the greatest possible taste and foresight.

Everyone who attends the festival may be assured that he will find something to suit his individual taste, no matter how fastidious that may be.

By way of novelty there is to be a "side show" on an extended scale, consisting of Mrs. Jarley's Famous Wax Works and Living Statues, and to those who rarely enjoy a hearty laugh, we say, "A word to the wise is sufficient"—don't you fail to visit Mrs. Jarley.

The Progressive Band will discourse sweet strains of melody at intervals during the evening, and the "fair women and brave men" who through the stairway and press to the door seeking admittance will tarry themselves, when the portals disclose, upon the threshold of an enchanted land.

In order to make the scene as brilliant as possible, all the active workers, the ladies who preside over ice-cream stands, fancy tables, etc., will each personate some celebrity of the past. Charlotte Corday will be there with her "wicked looking knife," which she will plunge relentlessly into the breast of a well-grown turkey; while Marie Antoinette, in her imperial robes, will forget that she is queen, to minister to the bystanders.

Cleopatra, "the Serpent of old Nile," will rise from her sleep of centuries to shake hands with Martha Washington, Pocahontas, and a shining array of French courtesses, English Queens, and the lovely Gretchen of "Faust."

A number of Peasant girls of all nations will appear in appropriate costumes, and varied other characters will swell the number, who, with striking fidelity will reproduce the costumes and manners of "the brave days of old."

Want of space prevents more than giving a mere outline, and not even that, as there remain several notable features of the festival, which will no doubt prove equally as attractive as those already mentioned.

Perhaps not the least attraction will be the shape of a supper, which Lucullus himself would not disdain, and we need only add that Hebe is to wait on all who sit at the festive board, to feel certain that the vacant chairs will be few, if any.

When the object is one so eminently worthy, as is ours, in the endeavor to make the festival a great and brilliant success, surely all Ste. Genevieve, and especially all Catholic Ste. Genevieve, should rush to meet the good work more than half way.

Do You Want a Public Office?

There are one hundred and twenty thousand public offices within the gift of the new administration, and now is the time for those seeking public employment to take proper steps to secure one of these lucrative positions.

To this end the United States Blue Book will prove an indispensable guide and assistant. The Blue Book is a register of all Federal offices and employments in each state and territory, the District of Columbia and abroad, with their salaries, emoluments and duties, shows who is eligible for appointment, the civil service rules, questions asked at examinations, how to make an application and how to push it to success, and gives besides a vast amount of valuable and important information relative to government positions never before published. Send seventy-five cents to J. H. Soule, Publisher, Washington, D. C., and secure a copy of the Blue Book.

He Was Heard From.

A son of St. John, the prohibitionist candidate for the presidency, is a clerk in the interior department. His name is Harvey St. John. He is a Republican of the most pronounced type. He went to Kansas during the campaign and took the stump for Blaine against his father. While on there his father telegraphed that he wanted to see him. The son then graphed back that his passes did not go that way; the father sent on passes that did that way. The son paid his father a visit. During the conversation the prohibition candidate said: "Two years ago the Republicans of

THE COMING EVENT.

The attention of the good people of Ste. Genevieve is called to the approaching festival, which is destined to usher in Santa Claus and all Christmas cheer.

The evenings of December 21st and 22nd have been appointed as affording an excellent opportunity for the selection of Christmas gifts, from the many and various articles of use and beauty which have been purchased for the occasion, with the greatest possible taste and foresight.

Everyone who attends the festival may be assured that he will find something to suit his individual taste, no matter how fastidious that may be.

By way of novelty there is to be a "side show" on an extended scale, consisting of Mrs. Jarley's Famous Wax Works and Living Statues, and to those who rarely enjoy a hearty laugh, we say, "A word to the wise is sufficient"—don't you fail to visit Mrs. Jarley.

The Progressive Band will discourse sweet strains of melody at intervals during the evening, and the "fair women and brave men" who through the stairway and press to the door seeking admittance will tarry themselves, when the portals disclose, upon the threshold of an enchanted land.

In order to make the scene as brilliant as possible, all the active workers, the ladies who preside over ice-cream stands, fancy tables, etc., will each personate some celebrity of the past. Charlotte Corday will be there with her "wicked looking knife," which she will plunge relentlessly into the breast of a well-grown turkey; while Marie Antoinette, in her imperial robes, will forget that she is queen, to minister to the bystanders.

Cleopatra, "the Serpent of old Nile," will rise from her sleep of centuries to shake hands with Martha Washington, Pocahontas, and a shining array of French courtesses, English Queens, and the lovely Gretchen of "Faust."

A number of Peasant girls of all nations will appear in appropriate costumes, and varied other characters will swell the number, who, with striking fidelity will reproduce the costumes and manners of "the brave days of old."

Want of space prevents more than giving a mere outline, and not even that, as there remain several notable features of the festival, which will no doubt prove equally as attractive as those already mentioned.

Perhaps not the least attraction will be the shape of a supper, which Lucullus himself would not disdain, and we need only add that Hebe is to wait on all who sit at the festive board, to feel certain that the vacant chairs will be few, if any.

When the object is one so eminently worthy, as is ours, in the endeavor to make the festival a great and brilliant success, surely all Ste. Genevieve, and especially all Catholic Ste. Genevieve, should rush to meet the good work more than half way.

Do You Want a Public Office?

There are one hundred and twenty thousand public offices within the gift of the new administration, and now is the time for those seeking public employment to take proper steps to secure one of these lucrative positions.

To this end the United States Blue Book will prove an indispensable guide and assistant. The Blue Book is a register of all Federal offices and employments in each state and territory, the District of Columbia and abroad, with their salaries, emoluments and duties, shows who is eligible for appointment, the civil service rules, questions asked at examinations, how to make an application and how to push it to success, and gives besides a vast amount of valuable and important information relative to government positions never before published. Send seventy-five cents to J. H. Soule, Publisher, Washington, D. C., and secure a copy of the Blue Book.

He Was Heard From.

A son of St. John, the prohibitionist candidate for the presidency, is a clerk in the interior department. His name is Harvey St. John. He is a Republican of the most pronounced type. He went to Kansas during the campaign and took the stump for Blaine against his father. While on there his father telegraphed that he wanted to see him. The son then graphed back that his passes did not go that way; the father sent on passes that did that way. The son paid his father a visit. During the conversation the prohibition candidate said: "Two years ago the Republicans of

Two years ago the Republicans of

Two years ago the Republicans of

Two years ago the Republicans of

Two years ago the Republicans of

Two years ago the Republicans of

Two years ago the Republicans of

Two years ago the Republicans of

Two years ago the Republicans of

Two years ago the Republicans of

Two years ago the Republicans of

Two years ago the Republicans of

Two years ago the Republicans of

Two years ago the Republicans of

Two years ago the Republicans of

Two years ago the Republicans of

Two years ago the Republicans of

Two years ago the Republicans of

Two years ago the Republicans of

Two years ago the Republicans of

Two years ago the Republicans of

Two years ago the Republicans of

Two years ago the Republicans of

Two years ago the Republicans of

Two years ago the Republicans of